Top Fifteen Reasons to Fight a Speeding Ticket

1. Insurance rates can increase even for a minor conviction.
2. Your Ontario driving record lasts forever. It is not wiped clean after any period of time.
3. Every charge has minimum requirements for you to be found guilty. If you plead guilty you are waving your right to have a trial.
4. Many tickets are defeated on technicalities.
5. There could be an error on your ticket that could have your ticket dismissed.
6. There could be errors in the police officers evidence package (disclosure).
7. The officer or the other witnesses could possibly not attend on your trial date.
8. Even if you know you're guilty it is still up to the prosecutor to prove their case beyond a reasonable doubt.
9. If you don't challenge your ticket you will never know if you could have beaten it.
10. Too many demerit points can lead to a suspended licence.
11. Some employers screen their employees with a driving record search which could result in their loss of employment.
12. Some insurance companies may consider you a high risk driver with as few as 2 minor convictions.
13. Out of province drivers have their driving record affected in the same manner as if they were charged in their own province.
14. If you hire a licenced paralegal you won't have to miss time off work or school to attend court to fight your ticket.
15. The cost of hiring a professional will cost far less than if you do not.
